WACOANS TAKE POSSESSION OF FORT WORTH FOR DAY

More Than Three Hundred Members Y. M. B. L. Go on Trip to Visit Annual Panthertown Fat Stock and Horse Show, and Are accorded a Truly Royal Reception.

MAYOR-ELECT JOHN DOLLINS IS ARRESTED

Invitations Extended to Come to Texas Cotton Palace This Fall—Parade is Staged, With Alessandro's Band in Position of Honor—McLennan County Exhibit Attracting Attention.

Waco spirit. Waco prosperity and Waco and that he wanted every Wacoan to feel perfectly at home in Fort Worth. He assured his hearers that they were welcome and that his league felt honored by having them present.

Mr. Naman in his response thanked the Fort Worth League and Stock Show officials for their hearty welcome. He extended an invitation to the Fort Worth organization to give Waco a return visit during the 1916 Cotton Palace exposition and assuring them they would find the city's doors open to them at any and all times.

Mayor-Elect Dollins "Arrested."

As the crowds were standing listening to the welcome address and to the response, John Dollins, representing 240 pounds of mayor-elect, had caused the critical eye of the law to be upon him. He was seized by George McCaleb, city prosecutor of Fort Worth, and several Panther City policemen, assisted by the Waco police, placed under arrest and the patrol wagon called. It was not known exactly why Waco's higher magistrates to-be was being thusly treated.

Some said it was for "blocking the traffic"; others declared that it was for "placing heavy traffic in the business district." Yet others argued that it was for posing as "Texas' biggest town." At any rate, Mr. Dollins was securely locked in the patrol wagon and taken to the police station.

Here he was met and released by Mayor E. T. Tyre of Fort Worth, and Chief Bailey. At the same time he was handed Chief Bailey's diamond-studded gold badge and regularly ordained as special chief of police for the day by Mayor Tyre.

Alessandro's band led the delegation to the hotels of Fort Worth, where they further extended its Waco live-wire spirit. They also visited the offices of the Fort Worth Record and Star-Telegram and caused the editor of the former paper to say in an editorial of this morning's edition that there are no dead ones in the bunch that Waco sent to Fort Worth to visit the Stock Show." Both Panther City parades were led by Grand Marshals Tom Hamilton and Leslie Stegall, both of Waco, who rode two white stallions furnished by the Stockyards company. Next in the parade was an automobile carrying Perry A. Duncan, president of the Waco Young Men's Business League; W. V. Crawford of the Waco Y. M. C. A.; W. M. B. L. association; and a number of the Waco league directors. Alessandro's Fourth Regimental band of the Texas National Guards that kept things lively during the day by playing various popular airs was next in the parade. Then came more than 300 of the boosters, wearing their Waco badges and a number of automobiles which went to the depot to take care of the visiting ladies. Those on foot were headed by four Waco policemen, clad in "homestyled" white uniforms. The policemen were Roy Owen, A. Q. Pearce, P. E. Davis and T. M. Tonahill.

W. H. Evans of the horse department of the fat stock show and the Fort Worth band also had a prominent part in the parade. After moving through the main streets of the city, attracting wide attention, the parade disbanded in the heart of Fort Worth, where an address of welcome was delivered to the visitors by President B. F. Rowe of the Fort Worth Y. M. C. A., followed by a response by W. W. Naman, recently retired president of the Waco League.

"We are to be congratulated upon having such a number of real wide-awake boosters," was the manner in which Mr. Rowe began his address. "It has been some time since a city has presented such a splendid representation here as Waco has today."

Mr. Rowe further stated that he was greatly pleased with the friendly spirit that existed between Fort Worth and Waco and that he wanted every Wacoan to feel perfectly at home in Fort Worth. He assured his hearers that they were welcome and that his league felt honored by having them present.

FUNSTON'S FIGHTERS ON BORDER IN READINESS FOR VILLA CHASE

General Funston (arrow) and some of his fighting men on Mexican border.

This photograph, just received from the Texas border, shows some of the fighting men who will soon be in full pursuit of the bandit Villa. These men have been on the border for several years, and for a long time they have been impatient to avenge the murder of American citizens on both sides of the boundary line.

NO ENCOUNTERS TO DATE ARE REPORTED BY PERSHING

Main American Force Encamped Somewhere South of New Mexican Line, Nobody Knows How Far—No Active Co-operation from Carranza Troops, With One Exception.

GENERAL GAVIRA OPPOSED TO LEADER'S PLAN

Villa Being Surrounded, However and His Escape About Cut Off—Rumors of Unfriendly Attitude of Natives Continue—Border Patrols Strengthened and More Troops Arriving for Use if Necessary.

By the Associated Press.

San Antonio, March 16.—Somewhere south of New Mexico, perhaps twenty miles and possibly a greater distance, General Pershing and the divided force he is commanding are encamped tonight. They have had no encounter with Mexicans and their progress into Mexico in search of Francisco Villa and his little army has been uninterrupted, according to the laconic messages received by General Funston. "Merely ploughing their way through the desert sand," were the words of General Funston in summarizing the day's developments.

The campaign is being conducted on the assumption that the de facto government troops will co-operate in the effort to destroy Villa and his followers, but with the exception of the support given by a portion of the small garrison at Palomas, opposite Columbus, which joined General Pershing as scouts and guides.

General Funston's attitude towards Carranza is very similar to that adopted toward Villa. The war department has not yet disclosed the details of the expedition he has been left to General Pershing, and his commanding officer here is not bothering him respecting him reports others as regarding General Pershing as secretary yet is maintained as to the exact disposition of the punitive force. Its composition and future movements in general is admitted that juncture of the expedition now heading south will be made before the end of the week, perhaps Saturday, when they will be some fifty miles south of the international boundary line.

General Pershing will maintain his communication by means of wireless and carrier, automobiles and aeroplanes, bearing his messages for direct delivery to General Pershing as far as possible.

Secretary Baker received virtually no reports from General Funston dealing with events beyond the border. Late today he said he did not know whether the troops had proceeded southward from their first base on Mexican soil last night. Not a single dispatch from the border was made public during the day except one reporting the death of Lieutenant Zell, Eleventh cavalry, at the Columbus military hospital where he took his own life in a fit of despondency.

Army officials were convinced that no important developments were to be expected for several days. It seemed plain from the day's accumulation of rumors that Villa was far to the south of General Pershing's area of operations.

The war department would not divulge any details of the number of troops across the border or of the reinforcements sent. Press advances, however, showed that infantry accompanied the cavalry and artillery out of Columbus in the main column. That means slow progress across the desert, it will take days, to cover the distance to Galeana, the last town where Villa was reported to have been seen.

American officials in Mexico so far have been able to give little aid to the information that might indicate the bandit's movements. Consular advices today continued to report some concern over the situation in the Tampico district, however, where the British are signs of unrest. The British Kentucky was ordered back to Vera Cruz from New Orleans. Secretary Daniels explained that navy vessels now on the Mexican coast did not have radio equipment powerful enough to insure uninterrupted communication with Washington. With the Kentucky at Vera Cruz reports from smaller vessels along the coast can be relayed quickly to Key West and Arlington. The state department denied that American consul than Com. Williams at Torreon was leaving their

More Than Three Hundred Members Y. M. B. L. Go on Trip to Visit Annual Panthertown Fat Stock and Horse Show, and Are accorded a Truly Royal Reception.

MAYOR-ELECT JOHN DOLLINS IS ARRESTED

Invitations Extended to Come to Texas Cotton Palace This Fall—Parade is Staged, With Alessandro's Band in Position of Honor—McLennan County Exhibit Attracting Attention.

Waco spirit, Waco prosperity and good will predominated in Fort Worth yesterday when more than 300 live-wire boosters, the kind of which any city should be proud, invaded the Panhandle town and were honor guests at the annual fat stock and horse show. It was another triumph for the Waco Young Men's Business League, as had been predicted, as it was under the auspices of this organization that the trip was made in a special train of six coaches.

It was Waco Day at the fat stock show and the entire town was turned over to the Wacoans for their enjoyment. The special feast here yesterday morning a little after 8 o'clock over the International and Great Northern railroad and arrived in Fort Worth in about three hours. Fort Worth met the delegation with open arms and as soon as the special was within the borders of the city whistles from practically every factory there spread the news that they would find the city's doors open to them at any and all times.

Mayor-Elect Dollins "Arrested."

As the crowds were standing listening to the welcome address and to the response, John Dollins, representing 240 pounds of mayor-elect, had caused the critical eye of the law to be cast upon him. He was seized by Claude McClellan, city prosecutor of Fort Worth, and several Panther City policemen assisted by the Waco police, placed under arrest and the patrol wagon called. It was not known exactly why Waco's higher magistrate to-be was being thus treated. Some said it was for "blocking the traffic"; others declared that it was for "placing heavy traffic in the business district," while others argued that it was for posing to be "Texas' biggest mayor." Both Panther City papers carried extensive stories in regard to the coming of the Wacoans. The Record of yesterday morning carried a page section of advertisements of Waco firms, headed "Waco's Message to Fort Worth and Her Visitors." On this page was briefly told some of the activities by which Waco is so well known and some of the facts of the "head of navigation of the Mississippi of Texas."

Waco Badges Popular.

Upon their arrival in Fort Worth the delegation was met by representatives of the National Feeders and Breeders' Association, and the Fort Worth Young Men's Business League. They formed a parade and was led by Grand Marshals Tom Hamilton and Leslie Stegall, both of Waco, who rode two white stallions furnished by the Stockyards company. Next in the parade was an automobile carrying Perry A. Alessandro, president of the Waco Young Men's Business League; W. V. Crawford of Waco, president of the Texas Y. M. B. French Repulse Assualts on Le Mort Homme Positions

By the Associated Press.

Repulse at the hands of the French again has been the net result of a German infantry attack launched with huge effectives after a heavy bombardment against French positions at Le Mort Homme, northwest of Verdun. The Germans who attacked in serried masses were driven eastward toward the Bois des Corbeaux, where the French guns inflicted heavy casualties on them.

The attack at Le Mort Homme constituted the only infantry maneuver along the entire French front, but from Belgium to the Vosges artillery from both sides has been active at numerous points. Around Douamont and the village of Vaux the big guns are operating with redoubled violence, while southward in the Woerthe the artillery duels in the Meuse hills continue.

In the Argonne forest the French guns are still shelling the German positions northwest of the road from Varennes and German batteries near Montfaucon.

The latest German official communication making references to French attempts "to dispute our possession of the height of Le Mort Homme," has brought forth a statement from the French embassy at Washington that the Germans never have gained a footing on the hill, which the French still hold.

Only engagements between patrols have taken place on the Russian front.

The Italians continue strongly on the offensive against the Austrians on the Isonzo front, especially on the Padiglione heights sector and southwest of San Martino. On Podgora, the Italians entered the Austrian lines, but according to Vienna, were repulsed in vicious hand to hand fighting.

Both Austrians and Italians lay claim to success around San Martino. The Austrians assert that an Italian attack in this sector failed and that the Italians left numerous dead on the field. The Italian official statement declares that after severe artillerie and musketry preparations the Austrians launched two strong attacks and succeeded in reaching the edge of the trenches taken from them recently, but on each occasion were repulsed, "leaving the ground covered with the Dutch passenger steamer Tuanbantia, bound from Holland for South America, has been sunk by an explosion near the Noordhinder lightship. All the passengers, among whom it is reported were several Americans, and the members of the crew, were saved. Whether the ship was torpedoed or struck a mine has not developed.

General Gallieni, the French minister of war, has resigned because of poor health. General Roque will succeed him.

A Berlin semi-official dispatch gives an Athens report that British warships have bombarded Vuria, now Smyrna, almost entirely destroying the town and killing a large number of Greeks who constituted a majority of the population.

After the horse show and round-up last night the Waco boosters left Panther City for home. The train arrived here at 1:15 o'clock this (Friday) morning. Those who promoted the trip believe it to have been one of the most successful Waco has ever attempted. The boosters won the admiration of thousands of Texans through their aggressive and wide-spread enthusiasm, and it can be said that movement will be started in Fort Worth to give Waco a return visit.

The grand champion steer of yesterday in the Aberdeen class was purchased by Christ's cafe of Waco. The steer will be shipped here and slaughtered. Lack of fresh air it is said weakens the oxygen carrying power of the blood, the liver becomes sluggish, fat accumulates and the action of many of the vital organs are hindered thereby. The best action is to keep the body in motion, the result becomes the destruction of the figure is destroyed.

Pad out on bed indoor life is unhealthy and if nature is not assisted in throwing it off a serious case of obesity may result.

When you feel that you are getting too stout, get into motion in hand at once. Don't wait until your figure has become a joke and your health ruined through carrying around a burden of unsightly and unhealthy fat.

Spend as much time as you possibly can in the open air; breathe deeply, and eat from Morrison's Drug Store or any druggist a box of oil of korean capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself every few days and keep in the treatment until you are down to normal. Oil of korean is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps the digestion and even a few days' treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight.

MEXICAN SNIPERS REPORTED ACTIVE ALONG THE ROUTE

By the Associated Press.

Columbus, N. M., March 16, via Mail to El Paso.—While most of the reports reaching here unofficially today from the Mexican border indicated that the American troops in Mexico were unmolested in their advance, there were also reports that a few snipers had been encountered. There was nothing to show which of the American columns might have encountered snipers.

According to these reports, six or seven soldiers of the American expedition had been hit by snipers.

Troop trains came in here during the night and Columbus awoke today to find the camp had grown considerably in population since last evening. A new lot of cavalry horses was noticed. Great piles of supplies, in boxes and stacks of baled hay, had sprung up near the railway station. Quartermaster wagons left constantly over the road to the south during the day.

In a sage brush plain off to the side of the camp a number of aeroplanes were tried out. They had been set up since their arrival yesterday and were tested thoroughly today. One or two at a time were in the air most of the day. None of the aviators have yet joined the advance column so far as could be ascertained here.

troops arrived at Columbus and other points near the Mexican border, where they will be held in readiness to rush forward should their services be needed.

Rumors of an unfriendly attitude assumed by Mexicans generally towards Americans in Mexico continued to be received at General Pershing's headquarters but there were not taken with sufficient seriousness, although it was admitted that they tended to show that the Mexican city, they said, because they were convinced it was the best thing to do. Their departure, they said, was not caused by any overt acts on the part of Mexicans or failure on the part of de facto government officials to offer protection. Eleven Americans joined the party at Monterey.

Attacks on Patria And Tubantia Are to Be Investigated

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 16.—Only unofficial advice concerning the reported submarine attack on the liner Patria had reached the state department tonight, but officials indicated that an investigation of the incident probably would be ordered tomorrow.

Unless the identity of the submarine which sent the torpedo astern of the Patria can be established, which seems unlikely as only a periscope is said to have been seen, it will be difficult for the American government to act.

The embassy at Berlin and Vienna may be instructed to ask for information, but unless Germany or Austria admits responsibility the case hardly will be regarded as warranting formal representations.

Official information regarding the sinking of the Dutch steamer Tubantia off the coast of Holland also is lacking here. An American consul named Richard Schilling was reported aboard the Tubantia, but there is no one of that name or any similar name in the consular service.

In a letter dictated to Reuter's from Ymuiden, says it now is stated that there were no American citizens on board the Tubantia. There were four Brazilians, two Chileans, one Russian and one native of Switzerland on board, he says.

Unless the identity of the submarine which sent the torpedo missed the ship will be changed to produce a well-balanced organization.

The senate bill provides for a sweeping organization of the regular army in all departments as urged by the war committee in the plan of 1912. It calls for a peace strength of 178,000.

Federal Volunteers Planned.

Or first important in both bills, army officers and men are the provisions for the organization of federal volunteers after the federalization of the National Guard to the utmost legal extent has been accomplished.

The house measure provides for building up a national army in peace times through extension of the summer training camp plan. The senate bill proposes to go directly at the task, giving the president wide authority to organize regiments in every congressional district.

The measures differ slightly as to the federalization of the National Guard. Both approach the task through militia pay provisions, but the limit of pay is identical. The house bill fixes a minimum force of $90,000 for the national guard within five years, while the senate bill places its figures at 250,000.

Both bills contain proposals for creating far-reaching industrial reserves to include men in all walks of life whose aid to the army would be valuable in war times because of the skill or knowledge in particular lines. The house bill proposes in addition that government may for war material grant eight of war in commercial plants failure to work subject the manufacturer to a heavy fine.

Both measures provide for shorter term enlistments in the army and encourage recruiting for additional reserves for both regulars and National Guard; for systematic recruiting for an officers reserve corps and for the addition of officers to train guardsmen, cadet corps and federal volunteers.

Voting against the bill were Representatives Bailey, Pennsylvania; Budhman, Sabath, McAndrews and Tavener, Illinois; Callaway, Texas; Crosser and Gandy, Ohio; Hubbard, Colorado; Howard, George, Johnson, Kentucky; Thompson, George, and VanDyke, Minnesota; democrats, and London, New York, socialist.

Debate on the measure aroused great interest in the day when it was introduced.

General Kitchin took the floor to close the argument. It was one of the few times Mr. Kitchin has appeared for an administration measure during the session. Almost every republican member was present and quizzed by the more or less tariff experts.

A rapid exchange resolved itself into a general assault upon and defense of the entire Underwood-Simmons bill.

"The sole cause for the proposed repeal of the free sugar clause," Mr. Kitchin said, "was that imports had fallen off due to the European war, making the sugar taxes necessary to meet the expense of the government. Incidentally, he declared the democratic party never had committed itself to a free sugar act for all time."

"I have heard a great many people denounce the Underwood act, but I have not heard a solitaire single republican do so," Mr. Kitchin retorted.

"You repeated the very act you passed in the first congress following its enactment."

"The republicans are repudiating the platform of the republican party in 1912," Mr. Kitchin replied, "as you promised to revise the tariff after a commission had acted and specifically declared the Payne act was too high and ought to be cut down."

"The Payne-Aldrich tax I approved of then," interrupted Mr. Cannon, "and I have never apologized for it since, and I would to God it were on the statute books now."

AT THE TEMPLE.

924 Washington Street.

The address tonight will be given by H. M. Butler of New York. Mr. Butler is national commissioner of the Boy Scout organization and he is here for the purpose of enlarging the local company. His subject will be "The Aims and Ideals of the Boy Scout Organization."

Mr. Butler comes to our pulpit with recommendations from many prominent rabbis, and as his object to enlist the interest of the congregation in his work, no doubt large attendance will greet him in the pulpit. A special musical program has been prepared for the choir for this service.

On Saturday morning the services will begin at 10:30. On Sunday afternoon at 3:30 the Religious school will celebrate the Purim festival with a play in which every pupil will participate. A full notice of the event will be given in another issue of this paper.

The Y. M. H. A. meets on Sunday afternoon at 3:30. A fine program will be rendered.

Old West Landmark Torn Down.

Special to the Morning News.
West, March 16.—One of the old landmarks of Waco is being torn down to make room for a modern bungalow. The house was located on the corner of Front street, next to the business section, and was built thirty-three years ago by former constable of West. The site at present is owned by Chief of Police R. L. Bailey. The lumber in this building is in a fine state of preservation and most of it will go into the new building.

To Quickly Remove Ugly Hairs From Face

(Beauty Notes.)

Beauty-destroying hairs are soon banished from the skin with the aid of a delatone paste, made by mixing some water with a little plain powdered delatone. This is spread upon the hairy surface for two or three minutes, then wiped off and the skin washed to remove the remaining delatone. This simple treatment banishes every trace of hair and leaves the skin without a blemish. Caution should be used to be certain that it is delatone you buy.

FRECKLES

March Brings Out Unightly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

The woman with tender skin dreads March because it is likely to cover her face with ugly freckles. No matter how thick her veil, the sun and winds have a strong tendency to make her freckles.

Fortunately for her peace of mind, the prescription, othine—double strength—makes it possible for even those most susceptible to freckles to keep their skin clear and white. No matter how stubborn a case of freckles you have, the double strength othine should remove them.

Get an ounce from your druggist and banish the freckles. Money back if it fails.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE CLUB
MEETS WITH MRS. CLIFTON

Meeting with Mrs. Albert Clifton for regular session, nothing transpired out of the ordinary with the Domestic Science club except the passage of unanimous endorsement of the proposed Welfare League. Mrs. Offa Boggess of Dallas was a guest. The club meets with Mrs. M. D. Baker next Wednesday afternoon.

MRS. MITCHELL LYON HOSTESS AT LUNCHEON

With table reserved and made unusually attractive with the calendar of center, and with the same tone of color dash to art place cards, Mrs. Mitchell Lyon was hostess for twelve from among her matron friends at the Hotel Raleigh on Saturday. Not only an attractive table, but a nicely complimented service was Mrs. Lyon's further courtesy to those friends who have given special welcome to her visit from North Carolina.

MISS AUTREY HOSTESS FOR THE ALPHA CLUB

Following the usual line of fancy work, conversation and enjoyment of luncheon plate, the session of Alpha with Miss Nettie Autrey enjoyed music, violin and piano from the Misses Autrey and Marie Blocker. The members adored for the hour, the Mesdames J. J. Hutchinson and Armstrong. New members were welcomed in the Mesdames Ferguson, Smith and Easton. Mrs. P. J. Connally will be hostess next Wednesday afternoon.

FINE ARTS FACULTY IN ANNUAL PROGRAM

Complimentary to the public, the fine arts faculty of Baylor university will give a Bach program on Tuesday evening. This will be in Carroll chapel and the program is arranged in the order of an historical recital. The organ, voice, violin and piano will be used, solo and chorus.

MRS. SANGER HOSTESS FOR WEDNESDAY BRIDGE

The Wednesday Matinee Bridge club played its regular game with all members present in the home of Mrs. Asher Sanger. Miss Matilda Kohn of New York City was introduced as the only guest, while Mrs. Sam Sanger played the only substitute hand. Mrs. Herman Mayer and Mrs. Alexander Sanger captured the game trophies. On next Wednesday the club plays with Mrs. Dan Wise.

GIRLS' BRIDGE CLUB WITH MISSES HIRSBERG

The regular pleasant game of bridge for the Girls' club found the Misses Rosalie and Florence Hirsberg hostesses for the current week. Other club the guests were Miss Emma Beer, with the Mesdames Louise Michel and Louis Lipschitz of New York. Miss Beer won guest trophy. The game prizes fell to the Misses Clara Arden and Gussie Landman. Miss Elsie Haber provides the game for next Wednesday.

SOME PERSONAL NOTES FROM THE WOMAN'S CLUB

In conjunction with the other clubs, the Woman's club has held several elections and reports, delegate to the district meeting at Graham. Mrs. W. O. Wilkes with Mrs. Albert Weil's alternate; for the incoming president, Mrs. Charles Boynton, whose official title will be vice president, Mrs. Ben Gray Kendall; recording secretary, Mrs. A. J. Armstrong; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. D. Willis; treasurer, Miss Grace Prather, and auditor, Mrs. H. C. Black.

MR. AND MRS. W. O. VAN WYCK ENTERTAIN BRIDGE CLUB

The novelty of an evening game with the husbands was afforded the Monday Bridge club. Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Wyck of West Columbus entertained. The opportunity thus came for the hostess to introduce her father and mother, Judge and Mrs. S. C. Moore, from Sherman. The game closed with presentation to Mrs. Leslie Gardner for top score, a corsage of sweet peas, and to Hunt Jones a box of cigars, which he generously shared. The club will continue games during the Lenten-side, but no hostess is so far announced for next Monday. Playing with Mr. and Mrs. Van Wyck were Mrs. M. L. Wells, with the Messrs. and Mesdames W. B. Hays, Leslie Gardner, Hunt Jones, L. C. Alexander, William Edmund, Walter Lacy.

EMERSON CLUB GREETS AN INTERESTING VISITOR

Within the Emerson club at its present week meeting, Mrs. Goodwin of Chicago was greeted as quite an interesting visitor. Invited to deliver message from her club, Mrs. Goodwin told of the membership, which reaches nearly two hundred, and of an average attendance of seventy-five. Often an all-day session is held, when the club sows for charity or follows other welfare work. Study courses embrace visits and lectures in public places such as the Taft studio, the Fine Arts museum, and Hull House. Mrs. Goodwin is now guest of her daughter in the Grove Apartments. She visits Florida and returns to Chicago by way of the great Biennial in New York City. Her club, the Chrysolite, distributes $2000 on Tuesdays.

MRS. W. H. FORRESTER

HOSTESS FOR REVIEW CLUB

Following their "play party" of the day previous, the Review club came down to real business in following day session with Mrs. W. H. Forrester. The program reached English dramatists of the present, papers on Pinoe being given by the Mesdames A. M. Kennedy and Sidney Walsh. Mrs. Jennie Meyer was elected delegate to the district meeting in Brenham, with Mrs. D. J. McWilliams her alternate. For the Biennial in New York City the club president, Mrs. F. L. Christman was elected. Owing to removal from the city, Mrs. McWilliams could not accept the new presidency. Mrs. Forest Jackson was elected her successor. Mrs. Fred Robinson was present in behalf of the state committee, of which he is chairman. Social service, music for the afternoon was enjoyed from Miss Agnes Hall of Merkel. Several new members were proposed. These will be elected at the next meeting of the club.

MISS SALLIE KEITH

HAS MUSICAL FRIENDS

On Wednesday evening a coterie of friends, advanced musicians of the city, enjoyed a delightful evening. This came in response to invitations of Mrs. Sallie Keith herself one of the appreciated singers of Texas. Into her home some special spring touches were taken, growing ferns and blooms in basket. The program was impromptu, just the giving of talent where it was enjoyed thoroughly. Those who contributed were the Mesdames G. J. Rousseau, B. H. Schroeder, J. W. Carroll and Gaylord Debont, with Frank Eggers, Joseph Evans, One feature, unexpected and greatly enjoyed was a dialect reading from George Speckman, who followed the French Canadian lora. Mr. Speckman is the latest addition to the program. Miss Keith entertained the Mesdames Juanita Smith, Minnie Johnston, Lucile Gooch, the Mesdames Egert, Evans, and Mattie D. Willis, with Gaylord Debont, B. H. Schroeder, J. D. Isaac and Edward Bellamy.

RITA JOLIVET

Rita Jolivet, the actress who was aboard the Lusitania when that vessel was torpedoed by the Germans, has just become the bride of Giuseppe Cipio, an Italian count. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's father, at Kew, London.

great man of letters as Dickens. The following is Miss Wemyss' schedule:

Oliver Twist, the story of Dickens' life, March 17.

Little Nell, from "The Old Curiosity Shop," March 24.

David Copperfield, March 31.

Little Dorrit, April 7.

Paul and Florence Domby, from "Domby and Son," April 14.

Nicholas Nickleby, April 21.

The story of Pip, from "Great Expectations," April 28.

The Chimes, May 5.

Miss Silbert will continue the stories she is telling to the children under ten years of age. These consist of fairy tales, myths and nature stories.

MARY WEST CHAPTER MEETS WITH MRS. A. BRANSON

Quite a full attendance and quite an interesting session is the report of the territorial session of the Mary West chapter. This was a deferred program with South Carolina as subject. Papers were read on South Carolina, ante bellum and post bellum. Mrs. J. M. Morgan's was read by a welcome visitor, Mrs. Nannie Boggess, past chapter president, now a resident of Dallas; also by Mrs. Artemas Roberts on the South Carolina poet Timrod. Other contributions were more informal, clippings and personal reminiscences being given. Miss Carlisle, granddaughter of the Confederacy, rendered the music. No final business is transacted at the historical sessions, yet several items were mentioned, one proposing that the chapter take definite steps at once towards the proposed program. Mrs. J. Findley Smartt, whose efficient service as past chapter gives the Mary West chapter the state loving cup, was presented with a U. D. C. pin, quite a surprise for Mrs. Smartt. Mrs. R. H. Hill was reader from Timrod. Mrs. J. W. Downs conducted the program. A social hour followed "Auld Lang Syne" by the chapter, with Mrs. W. H. Kendall at the piano. Applications for membership were made. These come at every meeting. The Mary West chapter is growing in interest proportionate to numbers.

Notice to Subscribers.

Delivery routes in the City of Waco are in the hands of independent carriers, who buy their passes at wholesale prices. Subscriptions to the news are due them, not the Waco Morning News. They are under heavy bond, not only to give the best delivery service, but to pay their passers back much. Their remuneration is the difference between the wholesale price and the retail price which they receive from subscribers. This means of profit is such that they can afford to extra charge, exceed month by month. They are not required, and they are advised against, delivering the paper to anyone who does not pay the full price with the above subscription terms. These carriers are all earnest, hard working men and they will appreciate any courtesy shown them.

THE FATHER'S PART IN BABY'S HEALTH.

Committees having in charge the program for the observance of Baby Week in Philadelphia took occasion to have warning sounded to the fathers of the city on their responsibility in giving their children a fair start in the world in the form of sound minds and bodies. Physicians pointed out that the indulgence of the father in alcoholic liquors had a deleterious effect on the body of his child in that it tended to weaken the child's physical and mental vigor, rendered the child's body more susceptible to diseases of various characters, planted appetites within the child's constitution that will likely lead to excesses later in life, and undermined the moral stamina of his offspring by giving to the child the same weakened will power that characterizes the father when he refuses to curb his own appetite for drink.

There are other excesses in which men engage which are more apt to disease the bodies of their innocent children than drinking liquor, and the danger of these needs to be pointed out to the fathers of today as well as the boys and young men who will be the fathers of tomorrow. Liquor may be the inspiration for these excesses in many instances, but the whole blame cannot be laid at its door. There is enough work to be done in disseminating information to fathers and mothers and young men and women on the care of themselves and their children to justify the diligent efforts of health authorities and other public spirited agencies and individuals the year round without waiting until the annual recurrence of Baby Week, though it is very well that the special emphasis which Baby Week seeks to bring about should be employed at least once a year.

FROM THE DEPTH OF EXPERIENCE.

There has been no stronger argument for prohibition produced in this country than the presentation to the legislative committees of the state of New York of the petitions from 1,000 inmates of the various prisons of that state urging the passage of the Wilson-Follagor statewide prohibition bill.

Presentation of the petitions was made by a former convict, No. 11,221, who made the declaration that if the fate of the bill rested with the prison inmates it would be passed in ten minutes. "Most of these men have known the effects of intemperance," he declared, "and they know it was intemperance largely that put them where they are."

Osborne's vindication is a victory for prison reform everywhere.

OSBORNE'S VINDICATION.

There will be rejoicing throughout the country over the decision of Justice A. S. Tompkins of the supreme court at White Plains, N. Y., in acquitting Thomas Mott Osborne, Harvard graduate, retired manufacturer, and recent warden of Sing Sing prison, of a charge of perjury. Not even the crooked politicians who could not use Osborne for their selfish purposes ever believed he was guilty, as charged by the grand jury indictment, and their frame-up on him is one that would hardly be believed possible in so advanced a state as New York.

Evidently the grand jury was either "loaded" to employ a slang expression, or constituted of men who had so little strength as to become the easy tools of the designing politicians who wanted to kill, politically and officially, a man who was trying to redeem fallen humanity, and the weakness of the case it made against Osborne and the dismissal of the charge show the disposed warden's strength in even a stronger light than it had appeared before the iniquitous proceedings against him began.

Justice Tompkins held that Dr. Randolph Riedling, a state prison commissioner, was without legal authority when he investigated, single-handed, Osborne's administration of Sing Sing. It was before Dr. Riedling that Osborne last October committed the alleged perjury by swearing, as charged, that he was without knowledge of certain cases of immorality.

Justice Tompkins held there was no perjury committed by Osborne, inasmuch as the warden had the right to keep inviolate the pledges given convicts who had confessed their immorality to him. He held further that "there can be no perjury unless the proceeding in which the testimony given is authorized by law."

When Justice Tompkins threw out the case against Mr. Osborne the latter's attorney sought to proceed with the case charging him with neglect of duty and immorality, but the state's attorney refused to go to trial on the ground that he was not ready and Osborne will probably have to wait until April to secure vindication in that case, though the chances are that this case is weaker than the one which charged him with perjury, for it is well established that Osborne is not an immoral man.

The whole case against Osborne is that he brought justice rather than favoritism into play in his administration of affairs at Sing Sing and sought to make new men out of the prisoners and start them out into the world again after the completion of their sentences, prepared to live a decent and useful life. To this end he organized the Mutual Welfare league in which he sought to place the responsibility for the conduct of the inmates upon the men themselves. The organization had brought about a revolution in the conduct of the men. It revived their pride and self-respect. They began to feel that life was worth living again; that there was somebody in the world who was a friend to them, and that they would like to go back into the society of their fellows outside the prison walls a better man.

But this was not what the base politicians and the malefactors who stood in with them wanted. They wanted a man at Sing Sing who would take orders from them and reward their friends and punish their enemies. They did not want justice; they wanted favoritism, and if they could not get it they were willing to stoop to hell itself, if need be, to ruin the man who stood in their way. In order to try and break up the good work which Osborne had begun in the Mutual Welfare league, Prison Superintendent Riley sought to remove the fifty or sixty prisoners most active in that organization from Sing Sing to another prison, but Prof. George W. Kirchwey, a good man whom Governor Whitman named as Osborne's successor, following the latter's indictment, made a protest to the governor and Riley was removed, as he ought to have been long ago—or better, never have been named to the position at all.

Osborne's vindication is a victory for prison reform everywhere.

Talking about the inconsistency of the law, a peculiar case of it is afforded in Austin where the city is trying to force payment of taxes on houses and other property that were washed away in the overflows of Shoal and Waller creeks last year. Taxes were levied upon the property as it existed at the beginning of the year, but as the property was destroyed long before the year was out, thus depriving the owner of all revenue from it, we can see no justice in the state or municipality seeking to collect taxes upon it.

Why not enlist the services of William Jennings Bryan, custodian of the olive branch, while he is in this state, toward bringing about peace between ex-Governor Colquitt and Governor Ferguson?

There is now a Baker in the cabinet, but it appears that he is too busy now with other things to make any "pie" for deserving democrats, observes the New Orleans States.

GENERAL FUNSTON—DIPLOMAT.

The situation growing out of Villa's attack upon Columbus, N. M., has given rise to many new experiences, observes the San Antonio Light. Most of them have been of a military nature. For instance, never before had the country employed aeroplanes or the wireless in the conduct of a military campaign, nor had it used motor trucks to convey provisions, supplies and equipment for an army in real action. But while these innovations have directly affected the army alone, there has been another departure whose effects have been felt by the people in general.

Never before has the source of news regarding a military expedition into a foreign country been placed under the supreme control of the commander. When Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston was invested with full discretionary authority to plan and direct the execution of the punitive campaign against Villa and his bandits, headquarters of the Southern department, of which General Funston is in command, became the sole official source of news regarding the military operations of the American troops. With the consent of the war department, General Funston constituted himself the supreme judge of what the public should know, and what the public should not know, about the developments in the campaign. This arrangement may have disappointed some of the officials in Washington, and likewise many people all over the country who like to know what is "going on," but from the military standpoint it must be conceded that General Funston acted for the best interests of all concerned—except Villa—when he recommended that Washington let him do whatever talking was to be done.

It was a delicate, difficult task which General Funston took upon himself, one requiring firmness, courtesy, consistency, strategy, diplomacy and the power of discrimination. He occupied a position between two opposing demands. His was the task of giving out enough news to satisfy the popular appetite, which was whetted by a sense of patriotism, and of withholding such news as might destroy the element of surprise which he counted so essential to the early success of the campaign.

Placed in such a position, the average man might easily step too far to one side or to the other. How successfully General Funston has performed this delicate task, in addition to the military duties devolving upon his office, is shown by the fact that he appealed the popular demand for news and at the same time kept secret the actual movements of the American troops and the plan of campaign. General Funston might well qualify as a diplomat as well as a military strategist. He has talked, and in talking he "said something." Yet he has not "given away" anything that he desired to keep secret.

TIN CAN A MENACE.

Who would have thought the tin can is a menace to the public health? The expert malaria investigators of the United States public health service have found however that discarded tin cans containing rain water are breeding places for the mosquito which is the sole agent in spreading malaria. A hole in the bottom of the empty can might have resulted in the saving of a human life. Certainly it would have assisted in preventing a debilitating illness. Empty tin cans have no business about the premises anyway, but if we must so decorate our back yards, let's see to it that the can has a hole in the bottom.

"House in murderous mood; about a dozen pet measures of members are slaughtered," reads a headline in the Baltimore Sun over a story about the proceedings of the Maryland legislature. This appears to be a case of wholesale justifiable homicide, and we wish other legislatures might imitate the example.

Temple is making another claim to residence in the city class. She has enacted an ordinance against "jay-walking."

Mr. Bryan is not for peace at any price when it comes to dealing with the liquor traffic. And in that attitude he has our hearty approval.

Henry Ford is learning something as he goes along. He has reached the conclusion that peace as well as charity should begin at home and refuses to retain in his employ a man who quarrels with his wife. Of course if the wife is the aggressor the door to the divorce court is open.

Today will also be entitled to the designation of Good Friday if by some good fortune it should witness the capture of one Francisco Villa.

Members of the local military companies are patriotic and if they should be called out for border duty you can depend upon their giving a good account of themselves.

If the United States should decide to purchase the northern portion of Mexico from Villa they will pay for it in lead rather than gold.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Mexican Situation.

To the Waco Morning News:
The policy of watchful waiting has at last been set aside in favor of prompt and energetic action.

When the revolution broke out in Mexico, the value of American investments there was estimated at $1,000,000, from which a handsome income was derived. The number of Americans residents in Mexico was estimated at 40,000.

We all know how the Mexican problem has been handled by our government. Now I want to tell you how it should have been handled.

First, our government should have given protection to American lives and property in Mexico at any cost.

Second, we should have been strictly neutral in regard to the warning flag, forbidding no arms or ammunition to either of them, and requesting foreign governments to do the same.

Third, should it have been necessary for us to send armed forces into Mexico for the protection of American lives and property, it should have been distinctly understood that we would not interfere in any way with the internal affairs of Mexico. We did not expect to acquire any territory, and that we would withdraw our forces as soon as there was a stable and responsible government established.

American men have been murdered and robbed, their property confiscated or destroyed. American women have been outraged, and many American families have been separated, everything the bandits have done, while we were watchfully waiting. But the trouble did not stop there. Mexican bandits made it a business to invade the border counties for the purpose of robbery and murder. American residents along the border have never felt safe.

According to international law, a nation has the right to send armed forces into any foreign country which is in a state of anarchy when their citizens are in danger.

ED STRAUSS,
Waco, Texas, March 16, 1916.

The Irishman

The savage loves his native shore.
Though rude the soil and chill the air;
Then well may Erin's sons adore
Their isle, which nature formed so fair;

What flood reflects a shore so sweet
As Shannon great, or pastoral Bann?

Or who a friend or foe can meet
So generous as an Irishman?

His hand is rash, his heart is warm,
But honesty is still his guide;
None more respects the deed of harm,
And none forgives with nobler pride;

He may be shamed, but won't be dares;

More fit to practice than to plan;

He dearly earns his poor reward;

And spends it like an Irishman.

If strange or poor, for you he'll pay,
And guide to where you sure may be;

If you're his guest, while e'er you stay

His cottage holds a jewel,

His linnest soul he will unlock;

And if he may your secrets scan,

Your confidence he scorns to mock;

Faithful is he to an Irishman?

By honor bound in woe or weal,

Whate'er she bids he dares to do;

Try him with bribes—they won't prevail;

Put him in fire—you'll find him true;

He seeks not safety, let his post;

Be where it ought, in danger's van;

And if the field of fame be lost

It won't be by an Irishman.

Erin! loved land! from age to age

From more great, more famed and free;

May peace be thine, or, should thou wage

Defensive war, cheap victory.

May plenty bloom in every field

Which gentle breezes softly fan,

And cheerful smiles serenely gild

The home of every Irishman!

—James Orr (1779-1816).

Dry Weather Damaging Crops.

By the Associated Press.

Austin, March 16.—Reports received from the state department of agriculture indicate that the dry weather has already wrought considerable damage to the wheat and oat crops. Commissioner Davis said that from reports received, if the drought continues for a short time longer, it will eliminate altogether the wheat and oat crops unless some timely rain falls. If present conditions continue for a long time, it will also mean the elimination of the corn crop. Despite these conditions, Commissioner Davis warns the farmers against overproduction of cotton.

Bryan Speaks at Georgetown.

Special to the Morning News.

Every Three Minutes One Dies in the U. S.

By the Associated Press.

The Anti-Tuberculosis Society illustrates the frightful toll of consumption by extinguishing a light every three minutes, and shows that it is the man or woman, girl or boy, who neglects colds, whose blood is impure, who feels weak and languid, who is the very one to contract tuberculosis—and none are immune.

During changing seasons, or after sickness, blood-quality is most important, and if you and your family will take Scott's Emulsion after meals it will charge your blood with health-sustaining richness, quicken circulation, and strengthen both lungs and throat.

Scott's is free from alcohol—easy to take—it cannot harm. Get a bottle to-day.

Raw Sugar Goes Higher.

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 16.—The continued strong tone of the raw sugar market today sent the price of granulated to the highest level recorded since the outbreak of the European war. One of the largest American refiners quoted the granulated product at 7c, while others advanced the price to 6.9c. The high price was attributed to the recent acute demand for sugar from abroad owing to the small European acreage of beet sugar and large domestic buying.

Notice to Subscribers.

Delivery routes in the City of Waco are in the hands of independent carriers, who buy their papers at wholesale prices. Subscription accounts are due them. The Waco Morning News, therefore, are under heavy bond, not only to give the issue due price, but to pay for their papers each month. Their remuneration is the difference between the wholesale price and the retail price, which they receive from the carriers. The margin of profit is such that they cannot afford to extend credit, except month by month. They are not required, and they are not advised, to pay in accordance with the above subscription terms. These carriers are all earnest, hard working men, and they will appreciate any courtesy shown them.

Any adverse reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of the Morning News will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the manager.

THE FATHER'S PART IN BABY'S HEALTH.

Committees having in charge the program for the observance of Baby Week in Philadelphia took occasion to have warning sounded to the fathers of the city on their responsibility in giving their children a fair start in the world in the form of sound minds and bodies. Physicians pointed out that the indulgence of the father in alcoholics liquors had a deleterious effect on the body of his child in that it tended to weaken the child's physical and mental vigor, rendered the child more susceptible to diseases of various characters, planted appetites within the child's constitution that will likely lead to excesses later in life, and undermined the moral stamina of his offspring by giving to the child the same weakened will power that characterizes the father when he refuses to curb his own appetite for drink.

There are other excesses in which men engage which are more apt to disease the bodies of their innocent children than drinking liquor, and the danger of these needs to be pointed out to the fathers of today as well as the boys and young men who will be the fathers of tomorrow. Liquor may be the inspiration for these excesses in many instances, but the whole blame cannot be laid at its door. There is enough work to be done in disseminating information to fathers and mothers and young men and women on the care of themselves and their children to justify the diligent efforts of health authorities and other public spirited agencies and individuals the year round without waiting until the annual recurrence of Baby Week, though it is very well that the special emphasis which Baby Week seeks to bring about should be employed at least once a year.

FROM THE DEPTH OF EXPERIENCE.

There has been no stronger argument for prohibition produced in this country than the presentation to the legislative committees of the state of New York of the petitions from 1,000 inmates of the various prisons of that state urging the passage of the Wilson-Fullagar statewide prohibition bill.

Presentation of the petitions was made by a former convict, No. 11,221, who made the declaration that if the fate of the bill rested with the prison inmates it would be passed in ten minutes. "Most of these men have known the effects of intemperance," he declared, "and they know it was intemperance largely that put them where they are."

When we consider that prisons and penitentiaries are filled largely with persons who owe their downfall to intemperance, and realize the enormous expense to which the state goes to care for the victims of a business that it licenses, the argument that the state cannot afford to lose the revenue which it receives from the sale of the stuff becomes ridiculous, and even those who make what they are pleased to call a "business argument" for the retention of the liquor business are becoming ashamed to use it. But the question of revenue is a very small one when compared to the destruction of the health and character and morals of the people brought about by intemperance, and we cannot begin to perform our whole duty until we have placed an effectual ban upon the liquor traffic.

The rooster can give the man pointers as to the proper time to stop crowing, says the Philadelphia Telegraph.

There are some family trees that it is a mistake for the "woodman to spare" in the opinion of the Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

OSBORNE'S VINDICATION.

There will be rejoicing throughout the country over the decision of Justice A. S. Tompkins of the supreme court at White Plains, N. Y., in acquitting Thomas Mott Osborne, Harvard graduate, retired manufacturer, and recent warden of Sing Sing prison, of a charge of perjury. Not even the crooked politicians who could not use Osborne for their selfish purposes ever believed he was guilty, as charged by the grand jury indictment, and their frame-up on him is one that would hardly be believed possible in so advanced a state as New York.

Evidently the grand jury was either "leadied," to employ a slang expression, or constituted of men who had so little strength as to become the easy tools of the designing politicians who wanted to kill politically and officially, a man who was trying to redeem fallen humanity, and the weakness of the case it made against Osborne and the dismissal of the charge show the deposed warden's strength in even a stronger light than it had appeared before the iniquitous proceedings against him began.

Justice Tompkins held that Dr. Randolph Riedling, a state prison commissioner, was without legal authority when he investigated, single-handed, Osborne's administration of Sing Sing. It was before Dr. Riedling that Osborne last October committed the alleged perjury by swearing, as charged, that he was without knowledge of certain cases of immorality.

Justice Tompkins held there was no perjury committed by Osborne, inasmuch as the warden had the right to keep inviolate the pledges given convicts who had confessed their immorality to him. He held further that "there can be no perjury unless the proceeding in which the testimony given is authorized by law."

When Justice Tompkins threw out the case against Mr. Osborne the latter's attorney sought to proceed with the case charging him with neglect of duty and immorality, but the state's attorney refused to go to trial on the ground that he was not ready and Osborne will probably have to wait until April to secure vindication in that case, though the chances are that this case is weaker than the one which charged him with perjury, for it is well established that Osborne is not an immoral man.

The whole case against Osborne is that he brought justice rather than favoritism into play in his administration of affairs at Sing Sing and sought to make new men out of the prisoners and start them out into the world again after the completion of their sentences, prepared to live a decent and useful life. To this end he organized the Mutual Welfare league in which he sought to place the responsibility for the conduct of the inmates upon the men themselves. The organization had brought about a revolution in the conduct of the men. It revived their pride and self-respect. They began to feel that life was worth living again; that there was somebody in the world who was a friend to them, and that they would like to go back into the society of their fellows outside the prison walls a better man.

But this was not what the base politicians and the malefactors who stood in with them wanted. They wanted a man at Sing Sing who would take orders from them and reward their enemies. They did not want justice; they wanted favoritism, and if they could not get it they were willing to stoop to hell itself, if need be, to ruin the man who stood in their way. In order to try and break up the good work which Osborne had begun in the Mutual Welfare league, Prison Superintendent Riley sought to remove the fifty or sixty prisoners most active in that organization from Sing Sing to another prison, but Prof. George W. Kirchwey, a good man whom Governor Whitman named as Osborne's successor, following the latter's indictment, made a protest to the governor and Riley was removed, as he ought to have been long ago—or better, never have been named to the position at all.

Osborne's vindication is a victory for prison reform everywhere.

Talking about the inconsistency of the law, a peculiar case of it is afforded in Austin where the city is trying to force payment of taxes on houses and other property that were washed away in the overflows of Shoal and Waller creeks last year. Taxes were levied upon the property as it existed at the beginning of the year, but as the property was destroyed long before the year was out, thus depriving the owner of all revenue from it, we can see no justice in the state or municipality seeking to collect taxes upon it.

Why not enlist the services of William Jennings Bryan, custodian of the olive branch, while he is in this state, toward bringing about peace between ex-Governor Colquitt and Governor Ferguson?

There is now a Baker in the cabinet, but it appears that he is too busy now with other things to make any "pile" for deserving democrats, observes the New Orleans States.

The United States should decide to purchase the northern portion of Mexico from Villa they will pay for it in lead rather than gold.

GENERAL FUNSTON—DIPLOMAT.

The situation growing out of Villa's attack upon Columbus, N. M., has given rise to many new experiences, observes the San Antonio Light. Most of them have been of a military nature, for instance, never before had the country employed aeroplanes or the wireless in the conduct of a military campaign, nor had it used motor trucks to convey provisions, supplies and equipment for an army in real action. But while these innovations have directly affected the army alone, there has been another departure whose effects have been felt by the people in general.

Never before has the source of news regarding a military expedition into a foreign country been placed under the supreme control of the commander. When Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston was invested with full discretionary authority to plan and direct the execution of the punitive campaign against Villa and his bandits, headquarters of the Southern department, of which General Funston is in command, became the sole official source of news regarding the military operations of the American troops. With the consent of the war department, General Funston constituted himself the supreme judge of what the public should know, and what the public should not know, about the developments in the campaign. This arrangement may have disappointed some of the officials in Washington, and likewise many people all over the country who like to know what is "going on," but from the military standpoint it must be conceded that General Funston acted for the best interests of all concerned—except Villa—when he recommended that Washington let him do whatever talking was to be done.

It was a delicate, difficult task which General Funston took upon himself, one requiring firmness, courtesy, consistency, strategy, diplomacy and the power of discrimination. He occupied a position between two opposing demands. His task was the task of giving out enough news to satisfy the popular appetite, which was whetted by a sense of patriotism, and of withholding such news as might destroy the element of surprise which he counted so essential to the early success of the campaign.

Placed in such a position, the average man might easily step too far to one side or to the other. How successfully General Funston has performed this delicate task, in addition to the military duties devolving upon his office, is shown by the fact that he appealed the popular demand for news and at the same time kept secret the actual movements of the American troops and the plan of campaign. General Funston might well qualify as a diplomat as well as a military strategist. He has talked, and in talking he "said something." Yet he has not "given away" anything that he desired to keep secret.

TIN CAN A MENACE.

Who would have thought the tin can is a menace to the public health? The expert malaria investigators of the United States public health service have found however that discarded tin cans containing rain water are breeding places for the mosquito which is the sole agent in spreading malaria. A hole in the bottom of the empty can might have resulted in the saving of a human life. Certainly it would have assisted in preventing a debilitating illness. Empty tin cans have no business about the premises anyway, but if we must so decorate our back yards, let's see to it that the can has a hole in the bottom.

"House in murderous mood; about a dozen pet measures of members are slaughtered," reads a headline in the Baltimore Sun over a story about the proceedings of the Maryland legislature. This appears to be a case of wholesale justifiable homicide, and we wish other legislatures might imitate the example.

Temple is making another claim to residence in the city class. She has enacted an ordinance against "jay-walking."

Mr. Bryan is not for peace at any price when it comes to dealing with the liquor traffic. And in that attitude he has our hearty approval.

Henry Ford is learning something as he goes along. He has reached the conclusion that peace as well as charity should begin at home and refuses to retain in his employ a man who quarrels with his wife. Of course if the wife is the aggressor the door to the divorce court is open.

Today will also be entitled to the designation of Good Friday if by some good fortune it should witness the capture of one Francisco Villa.

Members of the local military companies are patriotic and if they should be called out for border duty you can depend upon their giving a good account of themselves.

The United States should decide to purchase the northern portion of Mexico from Villa they will pay for it in lead rather than gold.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Mexican Situation.

To the Waco Morning News:

The policy of watchful waiting has at last been set aside in favor of prompt and energetic action.

When the revolution broke out in Mexico the value of American investments there was estimated at $1,000,000, from which a handsome income was derived. The number of American residents in Mexico was estimated at 46,000.

We all know how the Mexican problem has been handled by our government. Now I want to tell you how it should have been handled.

First, our government should have given protection to American lives and property in Mexico at any cost.

Second, we should have been strictly neutral in reference to the warring factions, furnishing no arms or ammunition to either of them, and requesting foreign governments to do the same.

Third, should it have been necessary for us to send armed forces into Mexico for the protection of American lives and property, it should have been distinctly understood that we would not interfere in any way with the internal affairs of Mexico, that we did not desire to acquire any territory and that we would withdraw our forces as soon as there was a stable and responsible government established.

American men have been murdered and robbed, their property confiscated or destroyed. American women have been outraged, and many Americans have been exposed to everything that has while we were watching. But the trouble did not stop there. Mexican bandits made it a business to invade the border counties for the purpose of robbery and murder. American residents along the border have never felt safe.

According to international law, a nation has the right to send armed

After 25 Years, Anthropologist Learns Language of Monkeys

Special to the Morning News.

New York, March 12.—Professor Richard Lynch Garner, formerly of the University of Chicago, who has spent the better part of the last twenty-five years in the jungles of Africa in an effort to master the language of monkeys, and who has demonstrated that these little animals can not only distinguish the difference between half a dozen shades of the same color, can tell the difference between a sphere, a cube and a cylinder, and that they really have a language of their own consisting of a vocabulary of twenty words, will within the next several weeks sail from New York for the French Congo, where he will resume his peculiar pursuit and collect animals for the Bronx zoo and natural history specimens for the Smithsonian Institute.

For nearly a quarter of a century this anthropologist has been making a study of the animals that Darwin declared were our ancestors. Ten years ago he sailed on his fourth trip to Cape Lopez, in western Africa, his purpose being to learn the habits of the chimpanzee in its wild state and to discover if the ape also is able to distinguish color and form.

I am deeply sensible of the honor conferred on me and of the good will shown me by the gentlemen who have entitled themselves as members of the Massachusetts presidential primary. Nevertheless, I must request, and I now do request and insist, that my name be not brought into the Massachusetts primaries, and I emphatically decline to be a candidate in the primaries of that or of any other state. Months ago I formally notified the authorities of Nebraska, Minnesota and Michigan to this effect.

I am not in the least interested in the political fortunes either of myself or any other man.

I am interested in awakening my fellow countrymen to the need of facing unpleasant facts. I am interested in triumph of the great principles for which with all my heart and soul I have striven and shall continue to strive.

Doesn't Want Nomination.

"I will not enter into any fight for the nomination, and I will not permit any factional fight to be made in my behalf. Indeed, I will go further and say that it would be a mistake to nominate me unless the country has in its behalf something of the heroic unless it feels only like devoting itself to ideals, but to the purpose measurably to realize those ideals in action.

This is one of those rare times which come only at long intervals in a nation's history, when the action taken determines the life of the generation that follows. Such times were those from 1776 to 1789, in the days of Washington, and from 1858 to 1865, in the days of Lincoln.

Whether we do or do not accomplish that feat will depend largely on the action taken at the republican and progressive national conventions next June.

Nothing is to be hoped for from the present administration, and the struggle between the president and his party leaders in congress are today merely struggles as to whether the national shall see its governmental representatives adopt an attitude of a little more or a little less hypocrisy and follow a policy of slightly greater or slightly less baseness. All that they offer us is a choice between degrees of hypocrisy and degrees of infamy.

"But disgust with the unmanly failure of the present administration, I believe, does not and cannot ought not to mean that the American people want war.

MARLIN HOT WELLS STOCKHOLDERS MEET

FINANCIAL REPORT RECEIVED,
BUT ANNUAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS POSTPONED.

Since Organization of Concern in 1909,
$52,000 Has Been Received in Treasury.

Special to the Morning News.

Marlin, March 16.—At the first meeting of the stockholders of the Marlin Hot Wells company since October 10, 1912, held this morning in the Elks' club, Treasurer J. C. Fountain presented a financial statement showing that since the organization of the company in 1909, $52,000 had been taken in, through the sale of $25,000 in stock and the balance in oil production. Of this amount, $2,000 was spent for land, $8,000 for the wells and the balance of $20,619.61 in other incidental expenses with the exception of about $20 now on hand.

Although a majority of the 250 shares of stock was present it was decided to postpone the election of officers and directors to April 6, in the hope of having a better representation present. It is understood the company proposes making numerous improvements on its property.

Pledges Not Kept by Some Libraries, Says Carnegie Corp.

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, March 16.—If the Carnegie libraries in Texas do not fulfill the terms of their contracts with the Carnegie corporation the Carnegie library movement in this state will be greatly hindered, was the information contained in a letter from the secretary of the Carnegie corporation and which was presented today at the annual meeting of the State Library and Historical commission. The commission was asked to devise ways and means for compelling certain Carnegie libraries in Texas to keep their pledges with the Carnegie corporation. As there is no state law governing the matter, the commissioners go no further than to request the libraries to fulfill their contracts. Of the twenty-six Carnegie libraries in the state, it is said that only ten of them have fully complied with their contracts.

A committee consisting of Mrs. J. B. Dibrell of Seguin, Miss Emma K. Burleson of Austin and State Librarian Klaerner was appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Mrs. John G. McKay.

MARLIN HOT WELLS STOCKHOLDERS MEET

FINANCIAL REPORT RECEIVED,
BUT ANNUAL ELECTION OF
OFFICERS POSTPONED.

Since Organization of Concern in 1909,
$52,000 Has Been Received
in Treasury.

Special to the Morning News.

Marlin, March 16.—At the first meeting of the stockholders of the Marlin Hot Wells company since October 10, 1912, held this morning in the Elks' club, Treasurer J. C. Fountain presented a financial statement showing that since the organization of the company in 1909, $52,000 had been taken in through the sale of $25,000 in stock and the balance in water rental. Of this amount $2,000 was spent on land, $2,000 for the wells and the balance of $26,619.51 is other "incidental" expenses with the exception of about $270 now on hand.

Although a majority of the 250 shares of stock was present it was decided to postpone the election of officers and directors to April 6, in the hope of having a better representation present. It is understood the company proposes making numerous improvements on its property.

Miss Battle's Recital Please.

Special to the Morning News.

Marlin, March 16.—An appreciative audience greeted Miss Pauline Battle when she appeared in her piano recital at the high school auditorium yesterday afternoon and the various numbers on the well arranged program were thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Battle was ably assisted in entertaining her guests by William S. Morrow, a well known baritone, of Waco, and by Miss Mary Bartlett, pianist, of Marlin, while Mrs. M. E. Chambers added to the appreciative enjoyment of the occasion by preluding each number on the program with a short explanation of the merit, including a resume of the lives of the composers and in many instances the historical significance of the composition.

Wacoans at Marlin Hotels.

Special to the Morning News.

Marlin, March 16.—The following people from Waco are registered at local hotels: T. D. Hammond, H. H. Laster, Leo M. Baker, J. C. Barnet Jr., J. S. McClintock.

Pledges Not Kept by Some Libraries, Says Carnegie Corp.

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, March 16.—If the Carnegie libraries in Texas do not fulfill the terms of their contracts with the Carnegie corporation the Carnegie library movement in this state will be greatly hindered, was the information contained in a letter from the secretary of the Carnegie corporation and which was presented today at the annual meeting of the State Library and Historical commission. The commission was asked to devise ways and means for compelling certain Carnegie libraries in Texas to keep their pledges with the Carnegie corporation. As there is no state law governing the matter, the commission can go no further than to suggest the libraries to fulfill their contracts. Of the twenty-six Carnegie libraries in the state, it is said that only ten of them have fully complied with their contracts.

A committee consisting of Mrs. J. B. Dibrell of Seguin, Miss Emma K. Burleson of Austin and State Librarian Klaeruer was appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Mrs. John G. McKay.

Aero Club Will Help Texas Officer in Learning to Fly

Special to the Morning News.

San Antonio, March 16.—Adjutant General Hutchings has been advised by the Aero Club of America that it will contribute $150 toward paying the expenses of such Texas National Guard officer as may desire to take advantage of the Curtiss Aeroplane company's offer to train an officer from each state free of charge. Application for such detail should be made at once to the adjutant general.

Texas Troops May Help Guard Border

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, March 16.—No information has been given out at the governor's office as yet whether or not the executive expects Washington to call out the National Guard for the protection of the border. In the event of further disorders by Carranza troops as were reported to have occurred at Ojinaga, opposite Presidio, Texas, it is believed here that Governor Ferguson will be prompted to take some action looking to the protection of the Texas border. Governor Ferguson, after an absence of a week, is expected to return to Austin tomorrow.

Business Activity at Moody.

Moody, March 16.—Paul C. Cuend of McGregor is opening a racket store here. The goods are arriving daily and he will be ready for business this week. Mr. Petway of McGregor will have charge of the business.

M. L. Cormany has started work on two brick buildings on his block in the business district. This will make five new buildings Mr. Cormany has built within the last twelve months.

Begin New Building at Mart.

Special to the Morning News.

Mart, March 16.—Dirt was broken yesterday afternoon for the foundation of the new brick building on Texas avenue next to C. T. Wolverton's hardware store. W. H. Criswell is having the building put up and the Queen theatre will occupy it. The contract has been let to Spencer & Durham Lumber company, and calls for a building 50x13 feet, with 18 foot ceiling.

More Livestock to Market.

Special to the Morning News.

Lorena, March 16.—Bradley & Evans on the Fort Worth market today with a mixed car of cattle and hogs. These men are scouring the country for this stuff, this being the second load this week. L. B. Bradley accompanied them through.

CUTTING BARB WIRE ENTANGLEMENTS—A DANGEROUS BUSINESS

With a shield of metal but large enough to cover him, this infantryman of the Austro-Hungarian army, operating along the Galician front, has wriggled forward, Indian fashion, to within a short distance of the trenches of the enemy. He now proceeds to get busy with his pliers on the Russians' wire entanglements.

UNITED STATES STEEL CORPORATION ISSUES REMARKABLE REPORT

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 16.—The fourteenth annual report of the United States Steel corporation, covering operations for 1915, was issued today and disclosed with much detail the remarkable recovery of the steel and iron industry from its low state of the preceding year and the first quarter of 1915, to the highest level of activity and prosperity ever known. One of the most impressive features of the report is the item recording the corporation's total volume of business at $486,352,054, against $380,228,143 in 1914. Of the total amount gained, domestic business showed an increase of 15.2 per cent and export business 122.4 per cent.

Earnings of $140,250,665 show an increase of $58,503,518 over 1914 and balance of earnings, less interest on outstanding bonds and mortgages of subsidiary companies, is increased $58,732,396.

A net income of $97,967,962 is a gain of $51,447,555, and the balance after interest payments on all classes of outstanding bonds is greater by $52,337,064. Surplus net income amounting to $442,369,774 replaces a deficit in the previous year of $16,971,984, an actual gain of $61,232,308.

The average number of employees totalled 191,126, against 178,353, and the total salaries and wages amounted to $176,800,864, against $162,379,967. The average daily salary or wage per employee was $2.92, an increase of 4¢.

Frisco Greek Consul Declares Officers Mistrusted Him

By the Associated Press.

San Francisco, March 16.—Cleanian Vassardakis, consul general of Greece at San Francisco, announced today that he had made a formal protest to the Greek minister at Washington against treatment received at the hands of local courts and sheriff's deputies.

Vassardakis was confined to his bed today under the care of a physician as a result of his efforts to prevent the execution of a judgment against him.

The treaty between the United States and Greece has been violated; consular papers and consular property have been removed from my office;

my consular dignity has been outraged and my constitutional rights have been violated," he declared.

Tuesday Club Meets at Eddy.

Eddy, March 16.—Miss Roberta Wilkinson was invited to speak at the Tuesday club's meeting this week. Mrs. Fred Muckleroy was awarded high score. Covers in green and white were laid and luncheon served, the white and green appearing in napkin and plate. Mrs. Dr. Smartt is the hostess for next week.

things far away. It is easier to get people to agree with you when you talk about things and people far away. But now that you agree with me that war is undesirable, let us turn to more immediate questions that confront us at home.

The remainder of the speech dealt with the present preparedness plan.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 16.—The police of Chicago now have four comparatively unorganized strikes of low-priced labor to deal with.

Three of them developed today in addition to the strike at the plant of the Corn Products company at Argo. Four hundred laborers quit at the Pullman car shops, demanding an increase from 2c to 2½c an hour.

Number of laborers went out at the Patent Vulcanite Roofing company, asserting they would not return until their wages were increased from 17c to 20c an hour. The third movement involved a small number of Chicago and Alton railroad track laborers employed in the vicinity of the Argon plant.

They claim that the railroad has not given them an increase promised for March 1.

Emmett Flood, an organizer for the American Federation of Labor, appeared at Argon to organize the strikers. Only minor disturbances were reported.

WACO VISTA WILL FORM SOCIAL CLUB FOR NEIGHBORHOOD

Over fifty of the leading residents of Waco Vista, in the extreme northwestern section of the city, have signed an agreement to enter into the formation of a community center for their section of the city and a meeting to perfect the organization will be held at the new North Waco school building, Alexander and McKenzie streets, at 8 o'clock tonight. It will be the first social center plan to be definitely launched in Waco.

Such as the work will seek to bring about a broader education and general culture among all the people of that community, it is hoped to secure the use of the school building for the regular meetings of the organization. It is announced that the object of the organization will be to bring about a general advancement of the members of the community along social, civic and intellectual lines to promote a larger social attitude and fraternal spirit among the members of the community, to improve and beautify the homes of the community and improve all public and private property, to develop general culture, stimulate higher ideals and provide more general and better amusement and entertainment for all the people of that section, regardless of age or financial standing, free of charge to the individual.

The social center idea has become pretty thoroughly fixed in other communities in other states, but it is rather new in Texas. However, Dr. L. S. Downs and others have been working on the plan for the Waco Vista move for several weeks and the response they have received indicates that the people there are fully ready for this advance.

China Springs Pioneer Buried Yesterday

Funeral services of Andrew H. Garrett, aged 75 years, for many years a resident of China Springs, were held at the Patrick cemetery yesterday afternoon where interment took place.

The deceased had been ill health for some time and had been gradually sinking for several days before the end came.

He was born in Georgia but has been in Texas fifty-nine years.

He is survived by his widow and four sons and one daughter, as follows: R. E. Garrett, T. D. Garrett, R. R. Garrett and A. H. Garrett Jr., all of the China Springs neighborhood, and one daughter, Mrs. Carl Harris of Stephenville.

The Wearing of the Green will be the fad in Waco today, for the seventeenth of March is sacred to St. Patrick, Ireland's patron saint, and the sons of the Emerald Isle, all over the world, pay honor to his memory once every year. Shamrocks, green ribbon, green carnations, in fact, almost anything of the color, may be seen today, and many persons, not Irish at all, to show their respect to the bravest people on earth, always join in the celebration, if such it should be called.

It has been customary for the Hibernians to hold a special observance, but this will not be done in Waco this year. The day is one of special devotion in the calendar of the Catholic church, which gives honor to St. Patrick for the conversion of Ireland to Christianity.

With a show audience at the Auditorium for the wedding guests and Miss Besse Dainty and her company as the assistants in the ceremony, a young Waco couple will be united in the holy bonds Saturday night as a "serious novelty" after the inter-act. Parties entering the nuptial vows under these peculiar circumstances are well known Waco people, but they will not permit the use of their names at present.

Miss Dainty and her company will act as a pageant of honor to the bride and groom. For their bravery in getting wedded as an inter-act specialty, the two will receive a valuable present from the Auditorium management.

Police Officer Does the Honors in Meeting Governor at Depot

That a policeman may always be depended upon to be on the spot is illustrated by the fact that Governor James Ferguson's sole welcome last night for a brief stopover in Waco was provided by the Waco Police Department.

The governor changed from the Cotton Belt to the International & Great Northern, returning from a visit to the Stock Show at Fort Worth, and was in Stock Show at Fort Worth, and was in the only few minutes shortly after 10 o'clock.

Aside from his official capacity as an honor guest at the exposition, he was keenly interested in the showing of blooded animals, but particularly himself with his record of trophies, and declared that he had had a great time.

The competition, which had been held up by customs officers since Sunday, was released late today by orders from Washington. This action, it was declared by Ives Lelevier, Mexican consul here, would be of material benefit in alerting many residents of Sonora that the United States intended no aggression against the Mexican government.

"It proves," he added, "that the American government is fully aware of the intentions of the Mexican government to cooperate with the United States soldiers in pursuing the bandits of Villa. Many Mexicans have believed that the ammunition would be held up indefinitely."

According to Mr. Lelevier, the remainder of the ammunition purchased by the de facto government should reach Douglas within a few days by express. It is to be sent immediately upon arrival in the Carranza troops operating in eastern Sonora to cut off Villa's retreat in that section.

Decision Against an International Arbitration Court

Frank Harrison and Albert C. The judges decided in favor of the negative, Erving C. C. McKinley and C. C. McClung defended the affirmative, while Z. M

CHINESE EMPEROR HONORS AMERICAN

John Watson Foster.

John Watson Foster, former secretary of state in the administration of President Harrison and father-in-law of Secretary of State Lansing, has just been honored by the Chinese emperor with the decoration of the Order of the Golden Grain for his services to the Chinese government. This order is the highest within the gift of the emperor. Mr. Foster served in that country in the U. S. diplomatic service and took part in the peace negotiations with Japan. He is eighty years old.

Shamrocks Today— Sure They Grow in Only One Place

"The Wearing of the Green" will be the fad in Waco today, for the seventeenth of March is sacred to St. Patrick, Ireland's patron saint, and the sons of the Emerald Isle, all over the world, pay honor to him yearly once every year. Shamrocks, green ribbon, green carnations, in fact, almost anything of the color, may be seen today, and many persons, not Irish at all, to show their respect to the bravest people on earth, always join in the celebration, if such it should be called.

It has been customary for the Hibernians to hold a special observance, but this will not be done in Waco this year. The day is one of special devotion in the calendar of the Catholic church, which gives honor to St. Patrick for the conversion of Ireland to Christianity.

Heavy Gates Will Dam Back Tide of Brazos Today and Form Lake

Securing partially what Wacoans have long looked for—deep water—the series of gates of the government lock and dam on the Brazos will be lowered today and the water will begin backing up for twelve miles, and within a week is supposed to give this city about six feet of water. All the construction of the large engineering project has been completed and only a little cleaning up, preparatory to the crews leaving, is to be done. The gates were dipped yesterday afternoon to wash the sand out of the bottom of the locks and will be lowered completely today, according to announcement yesterday. The water at the dam will be something like eighteen feet deep and will probably back up to the mouth of the Bosque, three miles north of Waco.

Practically all of the workers who have remained for the concluding touches on the dam will be moved with the machinery and equipment to the next undertaking in the chain of locks and dams. This will be at High-banks, below where falls a few miles from Milam. Barges are now under construction which will be used for the transportation of the men and materials down the river. During the course of the project the gang of workers has ranged from twenty to 200.

Waco being at the head of the proposed navigable Brazos, local interest has been centered in the construction unit nearest the city, and many enthusiasts consider the immediate advantages in the way of a great pleasure lake is a consummation greatly desired. It is said that several ple-

Muffins

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

When muffins are on the breakfast table, nobody cares for meat or eggs, and they would be served more often if this meal were not prepared so hurriedly that there is no time to make them. If K C, the double-raise baking powder is used, the batter may be stirred up the night before, put in the pan ready for baking and nothing to do in the morning but bake them.

One-Egg Muffins

2 cups flour; 2 slightly rounded teaspoons K C Baking Powder; 1 tea-spoonful salt; 1 cup sugar; 1/2 cup melted butter or lard; 1 egg; 1 cup water or milk.

Sift dry ingredients together three times. Add to this the unbeaten egg, melted shortening and water or milk. Then beat all together until perfectly smooth. Oil muffin or gem pans and have oven slow until the muffins come to the top of the pan, then increase the heat to brown and brown the muffins. This recipe makes 12 large muffins. Raisins or currants may be added if desired.

Graham Muffins
1 cup graham flour; 1 cup pastry flour; 2 level teaspoons K C Baking Powder; 1 to 2 level tablespoonsfuls sugar; 1/2 teaspoonful salt; 1 egg; 1/2 cup milk or water; 2 to 3 tablespoonsfuls melted butter or lard; 1 egg; 1 cup water or milk.

Graham batter should always be quite soft to insure light and moist muffins.

To get 88 other recipes as good as these, send us the certificate packed in every 25-centenial of K C Baking Powder, and we will send you "The Cook's Book" by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill. Handsomely illustrated. Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago.

PLAYGROUNDS MEAN BETTER CHILDHOOD

NEWSPAPER MAN IN ADDRESS BEFORE ST. PAUL MEN'S CLUB MAKES PLEA FOR CHILD.

FAVORITE WACO THEME NOW

Insists That Playgrounds Under the Proper Supervision Are Molders of Children's Character.

That the playground humanizes the city for the fun-filled youngster and makes a foundation for developing American citizens worthy of the name was the theme that ran through an eloquent address appealing for a chance for the children of the city, delivered by James Hays Quarles, news editor of the Waco Tribune, before the St. Paul's Men's club last night. The address was the chief feature of the regular monthly program and was well received by the members. Musical numbers composed the remaining part of the program, which concluded with a smoker and social hour among the men of the club.

The subject of public parks and playgrounds is in line with the club's program of social service for the year and is in harmony with the special interest in Waco aroused by several organizations through their programs for beautifying the city through an enlistment of public co-operation through contests and the press.

Mr. Quarles' address in full follows:

My address of playgrounds is the result of information acquired since I reached adult age, because in boyhood we did not have public places of the character provided now by municipal expense and private contributions. We played in the streets or rode the fences. Our games were suggested by our environment, and that which was proposed by any member of the crowd that gathered in the neighborhood, that suited the fancy of the others, was adopted.

There was no suggestion from trained leaders in "play there was no well-constructed, safe and athletic equipment such as is available today. As we roamed the streets, "followed the leader" through lumber yards and briar patches, and gave way to the animal nature to have a good time, it mattered not that it was harum, scarum, no system, no development and taught no lesson of conservation. If we overturned a pile of lumber in our scrapping, we were thankful if none of the party was hurt, and we hurried out of sight without the trouble the owner we were causing the owner: if we broke a plank off the fence, we kept quiet about it and left the task of repair to some one else.

Lessons of Play.

No grass grew on our playground, so we were not taught to keep it clean; scattered paper was of no use to us, so we let it blow to the other fellow's yard and did not pick it up. Of course we were taught the general lessons not to be destructive, not to annoy other people and not to trespass, but left to our own devices and desires, we would be carried away by the enthusiasm of the frolic that brought us together, and we would forget what we had been told.

This boy is no different from what we were, but his environment is different. As people have studied the boy question and the girl question, they have become convinced that it is necessary for the active, healthy boy and girl to have romping, recreation and exercise; that if this is not provided, that the child and the youth will have it whether or not we left to discover amusement and entertainment, the child will follow the line of least resistance, and take up that which entertains rather than educates; that which provides recreation but does not teach; that destruction will share with conservation in all efforts, the easier one being followed.

Since the child at three months of age begins to "notice things," it naturally follows that every-thing more is learned. The baby talk comes first, baby ways and baby stunts follow each other, and from day to day as the child advances in age it learns something. Why Keep Off the Grass?

They were beauty spots to be looked upon. I suppose that was where the familiar sign, "Keep off the grass" originated. I am glad to see it disappearing rapidly. Many want to see it again, because a beautiful carpet of grass is inviting, and it is not injured except that you persistently track a path through it. It was never in sympathy with the "keep-off-the-grass" sign. I think every yard, every school campus and every playground should be rich in grass. Public parks in the United States are as old as the cities, but the playground features have come after the parks. It was in 1866 that the first effort was made in this country to establish public baths. In that year Boston lifted the embargo on the Atlantic ocean. Since then other coast cities have followed suit, and they did rapidly, too. In 1889, twenty-three years after Boston acted, Milwaukee established the first free natatorium, and it was ten years after that before anything was done in Chicago toward such amusement. Today we find the bathing pool as a part of many playgrounds; we find it in the Y. M. C. A., and but recently the city of Houston has constructed a school building with such an appointment. City Hall park, New York, was for many years a playground before the park was established and later certain parts of it were set apart for the children, but not until 1887 that the general playground movement started there. It was in 1872 that Brookline, Mass., established a playground, and Boston, just a few miles distant, was several years finding it out. It was not until 1893 there was a playground in Chicago, and before that was constructed there were 800,000 people in the city who lived more than a mile from any park.

A WACO INTERVIEW

Mrs. Battaille Tells Her Experience.

The following brief account of an interview with a Waco woman three years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen:

Mrs. A. W. Battaille, 1704 Webster street, Waco, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are an old family medicine with us. I have never used them without getting prompt relief. I got them at Morrison's Old Corner Drug Store and can't praise them too highly." (State-ment given Dec. 2, 1915.)

On May 12, 1915, Mrs. Battaille said:

"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills several times since when I have need of a kidney tonic, and they have always helped me."

school age is reached. This teacher is not necessarily an employed tutor. Environment can work wonders, and when we take child out of the public street, out of the alleyway or from a cramped playground behind the house, and provide an equipped playground, with all the facilities for proper enjoyment, the lesson is at once learned. The association with other children who have learned to play on the green and to protect it; who learn to destroy the flowers, who have been taught to enjoy the swings, the teeter boards and the slide, and not to break or deface them, will pass to the newcomer on the playground, and the habits thus acquired will last with the growing boy or girl.

Danger of Streets.

One of the necessities of the public playgrounds is the danger of the public streets. There are many children who would have no employment except in the street if a playground was not provided, subject always to the danger of accident, and thus we provide a safety zone. It is true that such safety zone is provided at an expense of the public or of some individual who becomes a liberal contributor, but it is worth it. Some said to John Stuart Mill that a certain reformatory was a very costly affair. "It would be worth all its costs," he replied, "if it saved one boy." "Do you really think so, Mr. Mill?" if it saved one boy?" "Yes," said Mr. Mill, "if that boy be my boy."

Suppose we look at it from the individual standpoint of John Stuart Mill. Is it worth all its costs if the playground or any number of them combined, will save your boy or your girl; save either from an accident in the street, from the environment of unregulated amusements and recreations, save them from habits that cannot be acquired where the playground system exists; save them from close and stuffy rooms and insanitary areas by providing a healthful breathing space? Do you think the effort worth it? Do you not approve of the philanthropy that provides the modern playground and the expense in the city budget that it costs? The dividends will be healthy men and women who will be the fathers and mothers of the children of the future, the men of affairs and the women of the home, and fine, strong, vigorous men and women, and these will make the city. J. A. MacKnight has written in a recent issue of the American City:

"The city must live by the life of its sons, As rivers are only the water that runs, If only the rocks and the gorges remain The river is dead as the sand of the plain."

If men are not there with vigor and might The city is dead and forlorn in its plight."

Suggests Park Supervisor.

I believe that every school ground in this city, whether it be a school for the whites or a school for the blacks, should be provided with play equipment to suit the ages of those who are pupils. The idea of a play leader should be eliminated for each of these places, and that the life and exercise and amusement that can be provided in this way means better boys and girls, and that such leadership will be a good investment. This will give us the vigorous children, the healthy children, will brighten the mind and strengthen the body of those who will take our places here in countinghouse and store, in field and foundry, in homes and schools, in churches and Sunday schools. Then the children here will not have the benefit.

Parks are ancient. Playgrounds are modern. The practice of reserving public parks for the delight and use of the people seems as old as civilization.

The Egyptians had parks from the earliest times.

They were small and ornamental with colonnades, porticoses and sculpture; the Assyrians and Persians were different.

They lavishly decorated vast areas of mountain land. In Rome in the time of the Caesars there were eight camps or colonies and thirty parks belonging to the city. Many European cities had walls and fortifications surrounding them in circles, and these were promenades for the people. But there is no mention of these places as playgrounds.

Will share with conservation in all efforts, the easier one being followed.

Since the child at three months of age begins to "notice things," it naturally follows that every-thing more is learned.

The baby talk comes first, baby ways and baby stunts follow each other, and from day to day as the child advances in age it learns something. Left to its own devices, the child acquires habits and manners and words that may not be for the best. Therefore, the necessity of the teacher, and the teacher must commence before the

Since the child at three months of age begins to "do things," it naturally follows that every day something more is learned. The baby talks, comes first, baby ways and baby stunts, follow each other, and from day to day as the child advances in age, it learns something. Left to its own resources, the child acquires habits and manners and words that may not be for the best. Therefore, the necessity of the teacher, and the teacher must commence before the first Jesus. The speaker said in part: "You need not undertake to bring an individual to Jesus unless that one wants to find Him. I would not spend any time with an infidel to bring him to Jesus. The time ought to be spent creating in the heart of the individual a desire for salvation." Continuing, the preacher said that much time should be spent in prayer for the lost and that singing helped to make people want salvation.

As a second reason the speaker said that the individual that went after Nathaniel had a positive testimony.

Philip exclaimed when he found Nathaniel: "We have found him" and Nathaniel knew who they had found.

said the speaker. Then he suggested that those present might have said it this way: "Good morning, Nathaniel; we are trying to hold a meeting up at Austin Avenue church."

"So you are?"

"Yes, if you think that you can help us out, come up tonight."

Then the speaker said: "If we would go out with the power of God on our lips and our hearts running over with love and say to others, 'We have found Him,' then we would have this church full of people seeking Jesus."

"As a third reason—Nathaniel was divinely recognized by the Master," said the speaker. "When he realized that Jesus knew his thoughts and all about him, he knew that Jesus was divine and then and there Nathaniel accepted Jesus as his Savior."

In conclusion the speaker told of a number of experiences that proved that "Thou shall see greater things," which was his text. Some of these experiences moved the audience greatly to go out and say to their friends, "We have found Him."

One-Egg Muffins

When muffins are on the breakfast table, nobody cares for meat or eggs and they would be served more often if this meal were not prepared so hurriedly that there is no time to make them. If K C, the double-raise baking powder is used, the batter may be stirred up the night before, put in the pan ready for baking and nothing to do in the morning but bake them.

Willard and Moran
Take Daily Jogs

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 16.—Although the snowstorm had made the roads in this vicinity almost impassable in places, neither Jess Willard nor Frank Moran shirked road work today. Early this morning each covered nearly three miles at a fast gait and neither showed any sign of fatigue.

In the gymnasium this afternoon Willard eliminated the wrestling part of his program but increased his boxing bouts by taking on a 200-pound man, going nine rounds altogether.

In his second round with Monahan he champion replied to a stiff blow with a left to the nose which started a cut from Monahan's eye. The timekeeper was so surprised in the unlooked-for exchange that he forgot the three-minute limit. Four minutes almost had expired when Monahan shouted: "Hey, there! That watch stopped working," and then time was called.

At Moran's headquarters the Pittsburg man virtually repeated his words of yesterday, although he had made up his mind to take a day off. Moran turned the scales at 200 pounds after he had a rindown and was awaiting the dinner gong.

Lieutenant Zell,

Commits Suicide

By the Associated Press.

San Antonio, Texas, March 16.—Word was received at Southern department headquarters, Fort Sam Houston, this morning of the suicide of First Lieutenant Edward M. Zell, Eleventh cavalry, at Columbus, N. M., early this morning. Lieutenant Zell's regiment was a member of General Pershing's command. Melancholia is given as the cause.

Lieutenant Zell was famous at West Point as a star member of the baseball and football teams, having returned to the school several times to coach. He is survived by his widow and two children at Fort Oglethorpe.

THREE BIG GAMES IN AS MANY DAYSNAVIGATORS PLAY GIANTS AT MARLIN TODAY—TIGERS HERE
SATURDAY AND SUNDAY.Cobb and Crawford May Be With Detroit Team—Many Stars Appear in Lineup.

Strenuous days the next three will be for Ellis Hardy's Navigators. They go down to Marlin today to meet the best the Giants can offer and come back for games Saturday and Sunday with the celebrated Detroit Tigers. A large bunch of Waco fans is expected to go down to the Hot Wells city to see McGraw's charges attempt to beat the locals, but by far the greatest interest is in the games here with Detroit.

Bennie Kuhn, of Marlin and many appear in the Giant line-up today. In case he does, he will face some minor league pitching that may surprise him. Mike Young, Kavanaugh, Stanage and Burns, all American league stars, are included in the list. Then there is Harper, former Pioneer and Eckhardt, who used to pitch for Dallas, both of whom are well-known here.

Just who will perform on the mound for the Navigators is not known, but the assortment from which it is planned to select the Detroit line-up is as follows:

Others in the party, besides Manager Jennings and his players, will be Messrs. Batchelor, Jackson, Beasley and Wilcox, Detroit baseball writers.

Jennings' letter says that he is looking for Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford every day and if they arrive in time they will be in the party to come to Waco. It is hoped that Cobb will reach Waxahachie in time to make the trip as a great attraction in himself. However, without him, the line-up is a formidable aggregation.

At Moran's headquarters in Pittsburgh, man, wife and his son, Michael, the Northern girl, winner in each event. The terrific speed of Miss Burstedt's drives at once placed her opponents on the defensive and kept them from getting away. In the final race New York's former champion, in the semi-finals Saturday and paired with Miss Marie Wagner of New York will meet Mrs. Schmitz and Mrs. S. F. Weaver in the doubles finals.

Timber and Lumber.

An arbor day approaches for this state and for others there will be an awakening of sentiment over planting of trees for shade, for beauty and for the birds, and here and there there will be such planting with appropriate ceremonies. That there will be any extensive planting of large groups of trees in any of the states is not probable. And yet, if conservation of timber is ever to be followed in our country there ought to be started growth of new trees, both hardwood and soft, by thousands of acres in various states, which would occur if the spirit of enterprise that way were given the proper impetus.

Recently the News and Observer of Raleigh, N. C., printed a half-column denunciation of the mutilation, for the cutting the wires on one single tree in that "City of Oaks." At about the same time the Morning Oregonian of Portland, Ore., was printing the proceedings in that city of the Western Retail Lumber Dealers' association, with 200 representatives of $50,000,000 capital, and in that connection made mention of the completion of contouring of a tract of timber east of Sutherlin, in that state, containing 65,000 acres, "being the largest and most timbered area of timber on record." This tract will be invaded by half a dozen little railroads and a score or more of mills to cut it down and make lumber of it. There will be no provision for a new growth here.

An official report from Washington for 1915 tells us that the present rate of cutting in our country is three times the annual growth of the forests; that we cut yearly twenty-two billion feet of wood, valued at $1,375,000,000.

While the value from the woods tells us truthfully that there is no present shortage of timber or lumber, we have this from Washington: "The great pines of the lake states are nearing exhaustion."

No gift of prophecy is required to see great strides in the future in cutting of timber and production of lumber, and as a result continuous exhaustion of the original forests. This country needs new trees, and great forest of them, north and south. Cincinnati Enquirer.

Kansas City, March 16.—The cotton market was quiet today and prices showed a generally steady tone with July contracts selling up to 12.24 or 15 points above the month's final figures and ending at 12.18. The general list was steady at a net level, with 15 to 17 points for the day. There was some irregularity during the first hour. Liverpool cables were relatively steady and the market here opened to 4 points higher. The market standard on trade buying of the old crop, combined with covering by some of yesterday's local sellers.

The advance was held in check by rather heavy Liverpool selling of late months, particularly the 12th and 13th, but the buying in the English market against these sales was reflected in steady cables and after the close abroad shut out arbitrage business. Report here proved more sensitive to support. The demand for May and July from spot continued and there was also considerable covering.

Demand tapered off somewhat when the demand reached 12.04 for May, 12.23 for July and 12.35 for October, on about 14 to 15 points net higher. No material pressure developed, however, and the close was within 4 or 6 points of the previous day.

A Cigarette Is no better than the paper it's rolled with. SOVEREIGN is rolled in the best cigarette paper in the world—the highest grade imported from France—tasteless, even-burning, absolutely pure.

That's why you get the wonderful flavor of the better blend of Southern-Grown Old Belt tobaccos in SOVEREIGN—and smoke all day with a cool throat—"Quality Tells!"

Make this test. Light a piece of SOVEREIGN paper and note how perfectly it burns—leaving only a few particles of pure white ash! Compare with the black, soot-like ash left by ordinary paper. And remember—the lower grades of cigarette paper burn like ordinary paper.

SOVEREIGN is Entirely Different. Just to prove it—smoke one.

SLAUGHTER CAVALRY HORSES IN WAR IS INCREASING PRICES

Prepare to go bare-handed or to deplete your bank account.

This is the caution, somewhat over-emphasized, that was suggested in a letter received by E. B. Smith, sales agent for a $1,000,000 glove concern in California, who was stopping at the State House yesterday. Mr. Smith received the letter from the president going into the exact manner of the firm's purchase of raw material frankly, on his arrival in Waco.

The enormous increase in the consumption of leather in all forms and the additional rise in price of silk, metal, thread and everything that goes into the making of a glove, cause the prices to be very uncertain, said the president. Instructions were that no orders for gloves in quantities should be taken without confirmation from the company. Leather has advanced in price three times within the last thirty days.

So radical is the fluctuation in the raw leather supply, that the old regime of prices can no longer continue, said the president. "No similar condition has existed before within the knowledge of this generation and it upsets all previous standards," continued the glove magnate. The explanation was offered, that this country has been taxed to supply horses for European cavalry and that the average life of a cavalry horse is only ten days. The fact that the great supply of hides of horses killed in the war is not conserved for manufacturing purposes was greatly lamented. Another factor that is mitigating against the normal price list of gloves is the rigors of the contraband on such materials as Arabian wool and leathers.
